

New Resource for Architecture

September 23, 2013

OnArchitecture [1] is a new subscription online audiovisual database now available to the Yale Community featuring 100 videos of building projects, and 50 interviews with contemporary architects. It is a global scale project produced by Chilean architects embedded in 1086 architecture schools and almost 3 million architecture students throughout the world. OnArchitecture's video catalog includes interviews with prominent architects, records of their main works and installations, as well as interviews with the users of the spaces. Photo: Interview with American architects Michael Meredith and Hillary Sample, founders and directors of MOS. Sample is a lecturer in the Yale School of Architecture.
