

Student Research at Yale Library

Student Research at Yale Library - Proposals portal opens in October 2024

Through this opportunity two students are selected to curate two exhibit cases each, based on a completed paper or research project, using materials from the Yale Libraries. The selected students will learn how to transform their completed paper or research project into a physical exhibit utilizing production tools, templates, technical expertise, and guidance from Yale Library's exhibit professionals.

The majority of the curatorial work occurs in the spring semester with an exhibition opening the following fall. Exhibit staff coordinate schedules, deadlines, and management of collections materials.

Proposal submission:

- Check back in October 2024 for link to proposal form.

If you are considering this opportunity:

- Review the guide for submitting proposals for the Student Research at YUL exhibit [1] and production deadlines.
- Select a librarian or faculty member who has reviewed the Exhibit Advisor responsibilities [2] and has agreed to work with you to review your item selection and final exhibit text. If you don't already have a faculty member or librarian you are currently working with, the exhibit committee can help you connect with one.
