Office Hours Coffee Chat: Teaching with DH

February 14 at 2:30pm in the DHLab (SML 316)

How might a network graph provide context for course syllabi? What could a digital humanities workshop in a class look like and offer? During Office Hours, three Digital Humanities Fellows from fall semester will present on digital activities—from Omeka exhibitions on Latin American history to topic models of the Slavic Review journal—that they integrated into their English, History, and Slavic Studies undergraduate courses.

All are welcome to attend; coffee will be provided!

For more information on current and past DH Fellows, visit our DH Fellows page [1]. The deadline for applying to be a fall 2017 Fellow is Monday, April 3.

Presenters

Kimberly Quiogue Andrews (English), "Countercultures"

Carlotta Chenoweth (Slavic Languages and Literatures), "Avant-Gardes and Émigrés: Digital Humanities Lab"

Brandi M. Waters (History, African American Studies), "Introduction to Latin American History"
