Apply for a Training Scholarship

November 18, 2016

Training Scholarships for 2017

Interested in learning how to build a database or code with R? Apply for a Digital Humanities Training Scholarship! Yale undergraduates, graduate students, and librarians are eligible to apply. These scholarships support participation in week-long DH workshops.

For more information, visit our Training Scholarships [1] page. Not sure which workshop is right for you, check out our Off-Campus Workshops [2] page or send us an email at dhlab@yale.edu [3]!

Courses at the Digital Humanities Summer Institute [4] (DHSI) are already beginning to fill up, so we recommend applying now. A second round of DHLab Training Scholarships will be available in the spring for workshops that don't yet have their schedules posted.

External link: http://web.library.yale.edu/dhlab/trainingfall16 [5]

Source URL:https://web.library.yale.edu/dhlab/trainingfall16

Links
[1] https://web.library.yale.edu/dhlab/trainingscholarships [2] https://web.library.yale.edu/dhlab/offcampusworkshops [3] mailto:dhlab@yale.edu [4] http://www.dhsi.org/ [5] http://web.library.yale.edu/dhlab/trainingfall16