

Celebrating Yale History in Manuscripts and Archives - now on view!

The new exhibit "Celebrating Yale History in Manuscripts and Archives" is now on view through October 11 in the Memorabilia Room, Sterling Memorial Library. The Manuscripts and Archives Department in the Yale University Library is a treasure trove of resources documenting the history of Yale, from the 1701 minutes of a meeting of seven of the ten founding ministers of the Collegiate School that was renamed Yale College in 1718, to images, email files, and other born-digital material created within the past year by the University's offices and groups. This exhibit showcases items from the University Archives, Yale publications, and manuscript collections, organized around the themes of Student Life, Places and Programs, Yale and the World, Yale People, and Yale Events. This represents just a drop in the bucket of collection materials in Manuscripts and Archives and throughout the libraries that provide primary sources for exploring the people, places, and events that have contributed to over 300 years of Yale University history. The exhibit is curated by Manuscripts and Archives staff members. For more information contact mssa.reference@yale.edu [1] or (203) 432-1744. The exhibit is free and open to the public Monday-Friday,
