Dr. Dori Laub, one of the founders of the Fortunoff Video Archive for Holocaust Testimonies, died on June 23, 2018, in Woodbridge, Connecticut.

“Dr. Dori Laub was an inspiration,” said Ben Kiernan, A. Whitney Griswold Professor of History and the program’s founding director. “He demonstrated an intense scholarly and human interest not only in the devastation wreaked by the Nazi Holocaust but also in the impact of many other genocides on their victims around the world. And he was a pre-eminent scholar of trauma who also fostered a multidisciplinary interest in the study of genocide through history, sociology, religion, anthropology, political science, law, medicine, and photography. He will be greatly missed by many colleagues and former students in a variety of fields."
Dr. Dori Laub, co-founder of the Fortunoff Archive, dies at 81
Published on Yale University Library (https://web.library.yale.edu)

Read Dr. Laub’s online obituary here [3]. Hear him talk about empathic listening in this video excerpt [4].

Source URL: https://web.library.yale.edu/news/2018/06/dr-dori-laub-co-founder-fortunoff-archive-dies-81

Links
[1] https://web.library.yale.edu/testimonies
[2] https://gsp.yale.edu/