

From Stoeckel to Hindemith: The Early Years of the Yale School of Music

March 27, 2020

The Gilmore Music Library celebrates the 125th anniversary of the establishment of the Yale School of Music with an exhibition that highlights the School's early years. Among the musicians featured are Gustave Stoeckel (the first Professor of Music at Yale), Horatio Parker (the first Dean of the School), Charles Ives, and Paul Hindemith.

The exhibition is curated by Richard Boursy, Research Archivist at the the Gilmore Music Library.

Unfortunately, all onsite library exhibitions are closed until further notice as part of the university's COVID-19 response. However, this exhibition is also available online [1]!

Source URL: <https://web.library.yale.edu/news/2020/03/stoeckel-hindemith-early-years-yale-school-music>

Links

[1] <https://onlineexhibits.library.yale.edu/s/stoeckel/page/introduction>