Biography

Isaac Backus was born in Norwich, Connecticut, January 9, 1724. Little is known of his childhood. In "An account of the life of Isaac Backus" (completed to 1756), he provides genealogical information and then begins a detailed chronicle of events leading to his religious conversion and his life after that point.

In response to preaching of the Great Awakening, in 1741 Backus joined the Standing church in Norwich. The Norwich minister was distressed that the converts caused too much agitation and after a few years refused to invite itinerant New Lights, so in 1746 Backus and several other church members withdrew and formed a New Light church. In 1748 Backus became minister of a New Light church in Middleborough, Massachusetts; he continued his association with the New Lights until 1756, when he withdrew because of his opposition to infant baptism. He organized a Separate Baptist church in Middleborough and remained as minister there until his death.

Backus published a large number of tracts and a 3-volume history of the Baptist denomination. His two major concerns are reflected in these works: unification of the Separate Baptists and the struggle against religious taxation as part of efforts to achieve religious freedom. Throughout his professional career Backus travelled extensively in New England, helping to organize churches and settle disputes among various Baptist groups. The Warren Baptist Association was established in 1767; Backus was a member of the Grievance Committee formed to work toward elimination of persecution by civil authorities. As an agent of the Committee he worked to keep the issue of separation of church and state before the general public; and in 1774 he travelled to Philadelphia with other Baptists to seek assistance from the First Continental Congress.

In his later years, Backus continued to be a spokesman for Baptists. He argued for ratification of the U.S. Constitution in 1790, convinced that in effect it stood for separation of church and state by prohibiting any religious test for officeholders. In 1796 he published the third volume of his History, and in 1803 an Abridgement. Backus died in Middleborough, November 20, 1806.

Scope and Content

The Isaac Backus Papers, 1660-1806, consist of two major components: personal papers and collected papers. The Personal Papers (1746-1806) document the professional work of Backus, and are arranged according to the following categories: diary, travel journal, autobiographical statements, ordination booklet, sermons, publications, unpublished manuscripts, and extracts from readings. A card index, prepared by Brown University personnel, provides main entry access to the diary. The diary and index are published:

William G. McLoughlin, ed., The Diary of Isaac Backus,
3 vols. (Providence: Brown University Press, 1979)

The Collected Papers (1660-1806) are primarily correspondence and narratives chronicling the Separate Baptist struggle for religious freedom, gathered by Backus. This section also includes all correspondence of Backus and extant records of the Warren Baptist Association. A card index, prepared by Brown University personnel, provides main entry access to the Collected Papers. The index is divided into three general categories: Baptist History, Letters, Warren Association. The following usage notes may be helpful in working with individual indexes:

Baptist History --

The scope of the index is self-explanatory.
IB references include letters of IB to others and IB as the subject of a specific document.

Letters --

The index includes letters of others to IB.

Warren Association --

The index includes annual letters of individual churches to the association and correspondence dealing with business related to the annual meeting. The index also provides subject access to the unpublished manuscript, "History of the Warren Association."

Usage notes for calendar of Collected Papers

1) Many documents are described in the card index; frequently the index entry provides summary contents which you may want to use before requesting individual documents. Letter symbols which appear at left margin refer to a specific section of the index:

BH - Baptist History

L - Letters

WA - Warren Association

See description of index sections in Scope and Content note. All index access points are underlined; if the access point does not appear in entry description, it is typed in capital letters at end of entry; for example see 6/23/1749 entry.

2) In conjunction with research for A Memoir of the Life and Times of the Rev. Isaac Backus, A.M., Alvah Hovey copied some Backus manuscripts, which were deposited with the Backus Papers. In the calendar, a footnote reference "only Alvah Hovey copy" indicates that the original manuscript is not in the collection; a footnote reference "also Alvah Hovey copy" indicates that the original and the Hovey copy are in the collection.
